The second way in which we can define peace is as a situation where people live and work together in harmony, with no disagreement. Peace starts in the family. When you have peace in your home, then you are more likely to have peace with your friends. When a woman has peace with her children, she is more likely to be at peace with her neighbours. When there is peace in the neighbourhood, people can send their children to school without any fear. Children can go to birthday parties, play as they like and walk in the streets.
